

Statement, Question or Exclamation

Question marks are used to mark the end of a question.

Exclamation marks are used to end sentences that show strong feelings or a loud volume.

Full stops mark the end of all other sentences (statements)

Are the following sentences missing a full stop, question mark or exclamation mark?

Add the correct punctuation.

1. The roof was slippery after the rain
2. A shark is following us
3. Where did you go last night
4. This is my friend, Rick
5. Did you see the new movie
6. I just won the lottery
7. My mum sometimes dyes her hair
8. That's unbelievable
9. My watch stopped working after I wore it in the water
10. When should we leave for the party

Write three sentences, each using a different ending marker.

•

?

!

Statement, Question or Exclamation-Answers

Question marks are used to mark the end of a question.

Exclamation marks are used to end sentences that show strong feelings or a loud volume.

Full stops mark the end of all other sentences (statements)

Are the following sentences missing a full stop, question mark or exclamation mark?

Add the correct punctuation.

1. The roof was slippery after the rain.
2. A shark is following us!
3. Where did you go last night?
4. This is my friend, Rick.
5. Did you see the new movie?
6. I just won the lottery!
7. My mum sometimes dyes her hair.
8. That's unbelievable!
9. My watch stopped working after I wore it in the water.
10. When should we leave for the party?

Write three sentences, each using a different ending marker.

• _____

? _____

! _____